Total returns assume the reinvestment of all distributions at net asset value and deduction of all CIF expenses. Performance for other unit classes will vary due to differences in class expenses.

^AExpenses consist of the annual management fee and ordinary operating expenses for this particular unit class of the CIF. Gross expenses are the CIF's total annual operating expenses for the unit class indicated. Net expenses are the CIF's total annual operating expenses for the unit class indicated and reflect fee waivers and/or reimbursements, where these reductions reduce the CIF's gross expenses. Hand Benefits & Trust Company, the CIF's Trustee, has agreed to waive fees and/or reimburse operating expenses so that the CIF's annual net expenses do not exceed the value shown above. These waivers and/or reimbursements may be reduced or terminated at any time.

Credit quality is a measure of a bond issuer's ability to repay interest and principal in a timely manner. The credit ratings shown are based on each portfolio security's rating as provided by Standard and Poor's, Moody's Investors Service and/or Fitch Ratings, Ltd. and typically range from AAA (highest) to D (lowest), or an equivalent and/or similar rating. For this purpose, Brandywine Global Investment Management assigns each security the middle rating from these three agencies. When only two agencies provide ratings, the lower of the two ratings will be assigned. When only one agency assigns a rating, that rating will be used. Securities that are unrated by all three agencies are reflected as such. The credit quality of the investments in the Funds portfolio does not apply to the stability or safety of the Fund. These ratings are updated monthly and may change over time. Please note, the Fund itself has not been rated by an independent rating agency.

Brandywine Global

Brandywine Global Investment Management, LLC (Brandywine Global), a subsidiary of Legg Mason, Inc., acts as the sub-advisor to the CIF. Since their founding in 1986, Brandywine Global, a value-investing pioneer, has refined classic value-investing principles and applied them to many new types of securities and market sectors.

Principal investment risks

Among the principal risks of investing in the CIF are interest rate, credit, reinvestment, derivatives, international investment, asset-backed and mortgage-backed securities, non-diversification risks, and possible loss of principal. As interest rates rise, the value of fixed-income securities falls. High-yield bonds possess greater price volatility, illiquidity and possibility of default. Asset-backed, mortgage-backed or mortgage-related securities are subject to prepayment and extension risks. International investments are subject to special risks, including currency fluctuations, as well as social, economic and political uncertainties, which could increase volatility. These risks are magnified in emerging markets. Equity securities are subject to price fluctuation and possible loss of principal. Derivatives, such as options and futures, can be illiquid, may disproportionately increase losses and have a potentially large impact on CIF performance. Potential active and frequent trading may result in higher transaction costs and increased investor liability. The use of leverage may increase volatility and possibility of loss. The manager's investment style may become out of favor and/or the manager's selection process may prove incorrect; which may have a negative impact on the CIF's performance. The CIF is non-diversified and may invest its assets in a limited number of issuers or strategies. The CIF may engage in short selling, which is a speculative strategy that involves special risks. Unlike the possible loss on a security that is purchased, there is no limit on the amount of loss on an appreciating security that is sold short. Leverage may increase volatility and possibility of loss. The CIF may use derivatives to a significant extent, which could result in substantial losses and greater volatility in the CIF's net assets. Plans and their participants could lose money by investing in the CIF.

A more complete description of the principal risks of investing in the CIF can be found in the CIF's Investment Policy Statement, which is available upon request by calling Legg Mason Shareholder Services at 1-866-807-0886.
